Elections Canada

For more information, go to canada.ca/cra-elections-canada.

A) Do you have Canadian citizenship? If yes, go to question B. If no, skip question B. 1 [X] Yes 2 [ ] No

B) As a Canadian citizen, do you authorize the Canada Revenue Agency to give your name, address, date of birth, and citizenship to Elections Canada to update the National Register of Electors or, if you are 14 to 17 years of age, the Register of Future Electors? 1 [ ] Yes 2 [X] No

Your authorization is valid until you file your next tax return. Your information will only be used for purposes permitted under the Canada Elections Act, which include sharing lists of electors produced from the National Register of Electors with provincial and territorial electoral agencies, members of Parliament, registered and eligible political parties, and candidates at election time.

Your information in the Register of Future Electors will be included in the National Register of Electors once you turn 18 and your eligibility to vote is confirmed. Information from the Register of Future Electors can be shared only with provincial and territorial electoral agencies that are allowed to collect future elector information. In addition, Elections Canada can use information in the Register of Future Electors to provide youth with educational information about the electoral process.

Indian Act - Exempt income

Check this box if you have income that is exempt under the Indian Act.
For more information about this type of income, go to canada.ca/taxes-indigenous-peoples. 1 [ ]

If you checked the box above, complete Form T90, Income Exempt from Tax under the Indian Act, so that the CRA can calculate your Canada workers benefit for the 2025 tax year, if applicable, and your family's provincial or territorial benefits. The information you provide on Form T90 will also be used to calculate your Canada training credit limit for the 2026 tax year.

Foreign property

Did you own or hold specified foreign property where the total cost amount of all such property, at any time in 2025, was more than CAN$100,000? 26600 1 [ ] Yes 2 [X] No

If yes, complete Form T1135, Foreign Income Verification Statement. There are substantial penalties for not filing Form T1135 by the due date. For more information, see Form T1135.

Consent to share contact information - Organ and tissue donor registry

I authorize the CRA to provide my full name, email address and postal code to BC Transplant so that it may contact or send information to me by email about organ and tissue donation. For more information about organ and tissue donation in British Columbia and Canada, go to canada.ca/organ-tissue-donation. 1 [X] Yes 2 [ ] No

Note: You are not consenting to organ and tissue donation when you authorize the CRA to share your contact information with BC Transplant. Your authorization is only valid in the tax year during which you are filing this tax return. Your information will be collected and used in accordance with the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (British Columbia).

T1-2025

Amounts for Spouse or Common-Law Partner and Dependants

Schedule 5

Protected B when completed

Complete this schedule to claim an amount on line 30300, 30400, 30425 or 30450 of your return.

For information about the Canada caregiver amount for infirm children under 18 years of age, see line 30500 on page 6 of this schedule.

For specific eligibility requirements for each amount, see the charts on pages 2 to 6.

For more information about the Canada caregiver credit, go to canada.ca/caregiver-credit or see Income Tax Folio S1-F4-C2, Basic Personal and Dependant Tax Credits.

Attach a copy of this schedule to your paper return.

Eligibility for the Canada caregiver amount

You may be able to claim the Canada caregiver amount if, at any time in the year, one or more of the following individuals was dependent on you because of a mental or physical infirmity:

- your spouse or common-law partner
- your (or your spouse's or common-law partner's) child or grandchild
- your (or your spouse's or common-law partner's) parent, grandparent, brother, sister, uncle, aunt, niece, or nephew (if they resided in Canada at any time in the year)

For a person to be dependent on you because of a mental or physical infirmity, the dependency must be solely due to that infirmity. The degree of the infirmity requires the person to be dependent on you for a considerable period of time. A temporary illness or injury is not considered to be an infirmity for the purpose of the Canada caregiver amount.

Person with a mental or physical infirmity	Amount you may be able to claim
Spouse or common-law partner	both of the following amounts: • $2,687 in the calculation of line 30300 • up to $8,601 on line 30425
Eligible dependant 18 years of age or older (must meet conditions for amount for an eligible dependant at line 30400) (see note)	both of the following amounts: • $2,687 in the calculation of line 30400 • up to $8,601 on line 30425
Eligible dependant under 18 years of age at the end of the year (must meet conditions for amount for an eligible dependant at line 30400) (see note)	one of the following amounts: • $2,687 in the calculation of line 30400 • $2,687 on line 30500
Each of your or your spouse's or common-law partner's children under 18 years of age at the end of the year (see note)	$2,687 on line 30500
Each dependant 18 years of age or older (cannot be someone you claimed on line 30300 or line 30400)	up to $8,601 on line 30450

DRAFT - Not for filing

Note: You cannot claim an amount on lines 30400, 30450 and 30500 for your child if you were the only parent required to make support payments for that child to your current or former spouse or common-law partner. This rule applies only if one of the following conditions applied to you:

- You lived separate and apart from your current or former spouse or common-law partner throughout 2025 because of a breakdown of your relationship
- You were separated from your spouse or common-law partner for only part of 2025 because of a breakdown in your relationship and you are claiming a deduction on line 22000 of your return for support amounts that you paid to your current or former spouse or common-law partner

For more information, see lines 30400, 30450, and 30500 of this schedule.

Supporting documents

The Canada Revenue Agency (CRA) may ask for a signed statement from a medical practitioner showing when the infirmity began and what its duration is expected to be. However, a signed statement from a medical practitioner is not required if the CRA already has an approved Form T2201, Disability Tax Credit Certificate, for a specified period.

For children under 18 years of age, the statement should also show that the child is dependent on others for significantly more assistance in attending to personal needs and care than other children of the same age. Due to the mental or physical infirmity, the dependence on others is expected to last for a long and continuous period of indefinite duration. For more information and examples, see Income Tax Folio S1-F4-C2, Basic Personal and Dependant Tax Credits.

Line 30300 - Spouse or common-law partner amount

Claim this amount if, at any time in the year, you supported your spouse or common-law partner and their net income from line 23600 of their return (or the amount that it would be if they filed a return) was less than your basic personal amount (plus $2,687 if your spouse or common-law partner was dependent on you because of a mental or physical infirmity).

If you had to make support payments to your current or former spouse or common-law partner and you were separated for only part of 2025 because of a breakdown in your relationship, you can claim whichever amount is better for you:

- the amount on line 22000 of your return for deductible support payments made in the year to your current or former spouse or common-law partner
- the amount on line 30300 of your return for your spouse or common-law partner

If you reconciled with your spouse or common-law partner and were living together on December 31, 2025, you can claim an amount on line 30300 of your return and any allowable amounts on line 32600 of your return.

Only one spouse or common-law partner can claim the amount on line 30300 for each other for the same year.

Did your marital status change to a status other than married or living common-law in 2025? If yes, check this box and enter the date of the change.	55220	Month	Day
Basic personal amount from line 30000 of your return			16,129 00	1
If you are eligible for the Canada caregiver amount for your spouse or common-law partner, enter $2,687 (see line 30425 on page 4).	51090	+		2
Line 1 plus line 2		=	16,129 00	3
Your spouse's or common-law partner's net income from line 23600 of their return (1)		-	2,750 00	4
Line 3 minus line 4 (if negative, enter "0"). Enter this amount on line 30300 of your return.		=	13,379 00	5

(1) If your spouse or common-law partner is temporarily outside Canada but still considered a resident of Canada for tax purposes, enter their net world income.

If you were living with your spouse or common-law partner on December 31, 2025, use their net income for the whole year even if you separated for part of the year (then you got back together and started living together again in 2025), got married in 2025, or became a common-law partner or started to live with your common-law partner again in 2025.

If you separated in 2025 because of a breakdown in your relationship and were not back together on December 31, 2025, reduce your claim by the amount of your spouse's or common-law partner's net income before the separation.

If your spouse or common-law partner is a non-resident, enter their net world income in Canadian dollars. The CRA may ask you to provide supporting documents later.

DRAFT - Not for filing

Line 30400 - Amount for an eligible dependant

Claim this amount if, at any time in the year, you supported an eligible dependant and their net income from line 23600 of their return (or the amount that it would be if they filed a return) was less than your basic personal amount (plus $2,687 if the eligible dependant was dependent on you because of a mental or physical infirmity).

If you did not claim an amount on line 30300 of your return, you may be able to claim the amount for one eligible dependant if, at any time in the year, you met all the following conditions:

- You did not have a spouse or common-law partner or, if you did, you were not living with them, supporting them, or being supported by them
- You supported the dependant in 2025
- You lived with the dependant (in most cases in Canada) in a home you maintained. You cannot claim this amount for a person who was only visiting you

In addition, the dependant must also be one of the following persons by blood, marriage, common-law partnership or adoption:

- your parent or grandparent
- your child, grandchild, brother or sister under 18 years of age
- your child, grandchild, brother or sister 18 years of age or older with a mental or physical infirmity

Notes: For the purposes of this amount, the CRA considers your dependant to have lived with you if they usually live with you when they are not in school. Further, your child is not required to live in Canada, but they must still have lived with you. For example, you were a deemed resident living in another country with your child. (For information about deemed residents, go to canada.ca/cra-deemed-residents.)

You cannot claim this amount if any of the following applies:

- The person you want to claim this amount for is your spouse or common-law partner. (You may be able to claim an amount for your spouse or common-law partner on line 30300 of your return.)
- Another person is claiming the spouse or common-law partner amount on line 30300 of their return for this dependant
- Another person in your household is making this claim (Each household is allowed only one claim for this amount, even if there is more than one dependant in the household)
- Another person is claiming the amount on line 30400 of their return for this dependant. If you and another person can both claim this amount for the same dependant (such as in the shared custody of a child) but cannot agree on who will claim the amount, neither of you can make the claim
- You had to pay child support in 2025 for the eligible dependant. You cannot claim an amount on line 30400 for a child you had to make support payments for, except in the following situations:
  - You were separated from your spouse or common-law partner for only part of 2025 because of a breakdown in your relationship. In this case, you can choose to claim the amount for an eligible dependant on line 30400 of your return, plus any allowable amounts for that child on line 30425 and line 31800 of your return (where all the eligibility requirements are otherwise met) or the deductible support payments that you made to your spouse or common-law partner on line 22000 of your return.
  - You and another person had to make support payments for the child in 2025. Claim an amount on line 30400 only if you and the other person paying support agree that you will be the one making the claim. For more information, go to canada.ca/taxes-support-payments

Eligible dependant with a mental or physical infirmity

If the eligible dependant is 18 years of age or older and dependent on you because of a mental or physical infirmity, see line 30425 of this schedule.

If the eligible dependant is under 18 years of age at the end of the year, you may claim one of the following amounts:

- $2,687 on line 30500 of your return for each eligible dependant who is your (or your spouse's or common-law partner's) child
- $2,687 in the calculation of line 30400 if the eligible dependant does not meet the definition of child below

A child includes a person who is one of the following:

- your (or your spouse's or common-law partner's) biological or adopted child
- your child's spouse or common-law partner
- under your custody and control, and wholly dependent on you for support

Note: The eligible dependant must be dependent on others because of the infirmity and will likely continue to be dependent on others for a long and continuous period of indefinite duration. Because of this infirmity, the eligible dependant needs much more help with personal needs and care compared to other persons of the same age.

You cannot split this amount with another person. Once you claim this amount for a dependant 18 years of age or older, no one else can claim this amount or an amount on line 30425 of their return for that dependant.

If you were a single parent on December 31, 2025, and you chose to include all of the universal child care benefit lump-sum payment that you may have received in 2025 on your dependant's return, include this amount in the calculation of the dependant's net income.

If you cannot claim an amount on line 30400 of your return for an eligible dependant 18 years of age or older because you have a spouse or common-law partner, you may still be able to claim the Canada caregiver amount for other infirm dependants age 18 or older on line 30450 of your return.

Line 30450 - Canada caregiver amount for other infirm dependants age 18 or older

You can claim an amount for each dependent who meets all of the following conditions:

- They were dependent on you because of a mental or physical infirmity
- They were 18 years of age or older
- They were your (or your spouse's or common-law partner's) child, grandchild, parent, grandparent, brother, sister, aunt, uncle, niece, or nephew
- They were a resident of Canada at any time in the year. You cannot claim this amount for a person who was only visiting you
- Their net income from line 23600 of their return (or the amount it would be if they filed a return) was less than $28,798

You cannot claim an amount on line 30450 of your return for dependants who do not have a mental or physical infirmity, including a parent or grandparent.

A parent includes someone you were completely dependent upon and who had custody and control of you when you were under 19 years of age.

A child includes a person who is under your custody and control and is wholly dependent on you for support, even if they are older than you.

If you or another person is claiming an amount on line 30300 or on line 30400 of the return for the dependant, you cannot claim an amount on line 30450 of the return for that dependant.

If you had to make support payments for a child, you cannot claim an amount on line 30450 of your return for that child. However, if you were separated from your spouse or common-law partner for only part of 2025 because of a breakdown in your relationship, you may be able to claim an amount for that child on line 30450 of your return if you do not claim any support amounts paid to your spouse or common-law partner on line 22000 of your return. Claim whichever is better for you.

Note If you and another person support the same dependant, you can split the claim for that dependant. However, the total amount of your claim and the other person's claim cannot be more than the maximum amount allowed for that dependant.

Complete the chart below for each dependant who meets the conditions above.

Enter the number of dependants you are claiming this amount for. 51120

Line 30500 - Canada caregiver amount for infirm children under 18 years of age

You can claim $2,687 for each of your (or your spouse's or common-law partner's) children who meet all of the following conditions: The child:

- Was under 18 years of age at the end of the year
- had a mental or physical infirmity and will likely continue to be dependent on others for a long and continuous period of indefinite duration
- needs much more help with personal needs and care compared to other children of the same age

Note: You can claim the full amount in the year of the child's birth, death, or adoption.

If the child does not live with both parents throughout the year, only the parent (or the parent's spouse or common-law partner) who claims an amount on line 30400 for that child can make the claim on line 30500. You may still be able to claim an amount on line 30500 for your child if you (or your spouse or common-law partner) could not claim the amount on line 30400 for any of the following reasons:

- You claimed an amount on line 30300 for your spouse or common-law partner
- You claimed an amount on line 30400 for another dependant
- Another person in your household claimed an amount on line 30400 for another dependant
- The child's income is too high

You (or your spouse or common-law partner) can claim this amount for all eligible children separately, but the amount can only be claimed once for each child.

If you have shared custody of the child throughout the year, the parent who claims the amount for an eligible dependant (line 30400) for that child can make the claim on line 30500. If you have shared custody of the child throughout the year, but cannot agree who will claim the amount, neither of you can make this claim.

If you and another person had to make support payments for the child in the year, you can claim this amount only if both of you agree that you will be making the claim.

If you were the only person who had to make support payments for the child for 2025, you may not be eligible to claim this amount for that child.

For more information about support payments, go to canada.ca/taxes-support-payments.

For the purposes of this amount, a child includes a person who is one of the following:

- your (or your spouse's or common-law partner's) biological or adopted child
- your child's spouse or common-law partner
- under your custody and control, and wholly dependent on you for support

Calculation of Capital Gains Deduction

2025

Use this form to calculate your capital gains deduction on line 25400 of your return if:

- You disposed of qualified farm or fishing property (QFFP) or qualified small business corporation shares (QSBCS) in 2025
- You are reporting an amount from a 2024 reserve in 2025 from the disposition of QFFP or QSBCS

For definitions of qualified farm or fishing property and qualified small business corporation shares, see Guide T4037, Capital Gains.

Notes: You must be a resident of Canada throughout 2025 to be eligible to claim the capital gains deduction. For the purpose of this deduction, you are deemed to be a resident throughout 2025 if you were a resident of Canada at any time in 2025 and throughout 2024 or 2026.

The amount of the capital gains deferral from qualifying disposition of eligible small business corporation shares that are also QSBCS do not qualify for this deduction and should have been reported at lines 13199, and 13200 instead of lines 10699 and 10700. For more information see Guide T4037, Capital Gains.

Before you start

Complete Schedule 3, Capital Gains or Losses, to report the disposition of QFFP, QSBCS or the inclusion of reserve amount from prior-year dispositions of QFFP or QSBCS, and to calculate your taxable capital gain or loss for 2025.

Complete Form T2017, Summary of Reserves on Dispositions of Capital Property, if you are reporting a reserve claimed on your 2024 return or are claiming a reserve for 2025.

Complete Form T936, Calculation of Cumulative Net Investment Loss (CNIL) to December 31, 2025, if you have investment income or investment expenses in 2025. Form T936 lists the components of investment income and expenses for the purpose of calculating your CNIL.

To get these forms, go to canada.ca/cra-forms-publications.

Capital gains deduction limit

If you disposed of QFFP, QSBCS, or claimed a reserve for a disposition of QFFP or QSBCS in a previous tax year you may be eligible for the lifetime capital gains exemption (LCGE).

For dispositions of QFFP or QSBCS, the total of your capital gains deduction is limited to half of the LCGE amount available. Only half of the capital gain is included in your income as a taxable capital gain. For 2025, the LCGE is $1,250,000, so the total of your capital gains deductions is $625,000.

For dispositions of QFFP from 2016 and before January 1, 2024, the LCGE is increased to $1,000,000.

This additional deduction does not apply to dispositions of QSBCS. There is no additional deduction for QFFP on or after January 1, 2024.

Capital gains deduction limits on dispositions of qualifying capital property for 2016 to 2025

Year of disposition	Lifetime capital gains deduction limit	Year of disposition	Lifetime capital gains deduction limit
2016	$412,088 (1/2 of $824,176)	2022	$456,815 (1/2 of $913,630)
2017	$417,858 (1/2 of $835,716)	2023	$485,595 (1/2 of $971,190)
2018	$424,126 (1/2 of $848,252)	2024	Period 1 (January 1 to June 24, 2024) $508,418 (1/2 of $1,016,836) Period 2 (June 25 to December 31, 2024): $625,000 (1/2 of $1,250,000)
2019	$433,456 (1/2 of $866,912)
2020	$441,692 (1/2 of $883,384)
2021	$446,109 (1/2 of $892,218)	2025	$625,000 (1/2 of $1,250,000) (1)

For more information, see "Capital gains deduction" in Guide T4037, Capital Gains.

(1) If the T5013 slip (or letter) indicates that the disposition occurred during Period 1 of 2024 or the T3 slip indicates that the disposition occurred during Period 1 of 2024 and the footnote area does not indicate the amount relates to a capital gain reserve, the deduction limit is $522,145.

Qualified farm or fishing property (QFFP) and qualified small business corporation shares (QSBCS)

When you dispose of QFFP or QSBCS and have a capital gain, you can claim a capital gains deduction in 2025 that is equal to whichever of the following amounts is the least:

- your annual gains limit for 2025
- your cumulative gains limit for 2025
- your net taxable capital gains reported in 2025 from dispositions of QFFP or QSBCS, or if you are reporting a reserve in 2025 from the disposition of qualifying capital property
- your maximum capital gains deduction available for 2025

There is an election available if you own shares of a qualifying small business corporation that stops being a small business corporation for one of the following reasons:

- a class of its shares is listed on a designated stock exchange
- after 1999, a class of another corporation's shares is listed on a designated stock exchange.

This election allows you to report a taxable capital gain on your income tax and benefit return and claim up to $625,000 for dispositions in 2025 for the capital gains deduction, even though you did not actually sell your shares. The deduction applies to any gain you have on these shares up to the date the shares are listed. To make this election, complete Form T2101, Election for Gains on Shares of a Corporation Becoming Public. To get this form, go to canada.ca/cra-forms-publications.

Allocation and designation of capital gains from QFFP and QSBCS by a trust

If you are a beneficiary of a trust and received a 2025 T3 slip from the trust with an amount reported in box 30, use the following instructions to calculate your capital gains deduction:

- The amount in box 30 represents the total of capital gains from dispositions of QFFP or QSBCS reported by the trust in the current tax year (reported in box 55 or 57) and any capital gains reserve claimed by the trust in a previous year.
- If the disposition occurred in the current tax year of the trust, the capital gain will also be reported in box 55 for QFFP or box 57 for QSBCS, and should be included in your capital gains being reported for the current year on this form. Capital gains realized by the trust and allocated to you in 2025 are included in the amount on line 10700 or line 11000 of Schedule 3, as applicable. To calculate your capital gains deduction, refer to the instructions found in the footnotes of boxes 55 and 57, and complete Part 1 or 2 of "Chart 2025 - Capital gains deduction" accordingly. If the T3 Slip you received used the 2024 format of the T3 slip, report boxes 54 and 56 in Part 1 of 2025 and boxes 55 and 57 in Part 2 of 2025.
- If the disposition occurred in one of the four preceding tax years of the trust and the trust had claimed a reserve in respect of the capital gain, the footnote area of the T3 slip will indicate that the gain reported in box 30 is from the disposition of QFFP or QSBCS, and the year that the trust disposed of the property. These gains should not be included on "Chart 2025 - Capital gains deduction". Complete the applicable chart(s) for the 2021 to 2024 years (as determined in Step 3a, based on the trust's year of disposition). If the trust disposed of the property in 2024, the footnote area of the T3 slip will indicate whether the disposition occurred before June 25 or after June 24 of that year.

Example

You received a 2025 T3 slip for a trust. The footnote area indicates that the capital gain shown in box 30 is from the disposition of QFFP that occurred in 2021. Based on the questions in Step 3a, complete Part 1 and Part 2 of "Chart 2021 - Capital gains deduction".

Enter whichever is less: line 21 of Step 1, line 19 of Step 2 or amount G above.
If you are not reporting a reserve in 2025 from the disposition of QFFP or QSBCS after 2016, are not bringing a reserve into your 2025 income for any disposition of QFFP in 2016, and are not disposing of QFFP or QSBCS in 2025, this is the maximum amount you can claim on line 25400 of your 2025 return. However, you can choose to claim less. H

If you are reporting a reserve in 2025 from the disposition of QFFP in 2016 and amount C above is less than the amounts on line 21 of Step 1, line 19 of Step 2, and amount G above, and you want to claim the additional deduction, complete Part 2 of Chart 2016 on the next page.

(2016-1) If you claimed a capital gains deduction for other eligible capital gains from 2016 to 2024, complete the following calculation instead:

- amount from line k of Chart 2 of your Form T657 for 2016, plus
- amount of all capital gains deductions you have already claimed from 2016 to 2024 for this reserve, plus
- amount of capital gains deductions that you claimed for other gains (not the reserve) from 2016 to 2024, minus 1/2 of the maximum LCGE increase allowed for the other gains from 2016 to the year the other gains are reported (if negative, use "0")

Enter the result at amount B.

Election To Pay Canada Pension Plan Contributions

You can elect to pay Canada Pension Plan (CPP) contributions if one of the following applies:

- You were a resident of Canada during the year for income tax purposes and received income from any of the types of employment listed on page 3
- You were an individual registered or entitled to be registered under the Indian Act and received tax-exempt self-employment earnings on a reserve in Canada

To calculate your additional CPP contributions, complete and attach to your paper return a copy of Schedule 8, Canada Pension Plan Contributions and Overpayment, or Form RC381, Inter-Provincial Calculation for CPP and QPP Contributions and Overpayments, whichever applies.

You have to file your election on or before June 15, 2027, and pay your required contributions on or before April 30, 2027.

Attach a completed copy of this form to your paper return or send it to the Canada Revenue Agency separately.

Types of employment that you can elect to pay CPP contributions on

Type	Employment description
A	Employment in Canada by more than one employer at the same time, with the result that the year's basic exemption used to withhold CPP and Quebec Pension Plan (QPP) contributions was more than $3,500 for the year.
B	Employment that was pensionable employment where you received tips, gratuities, or other earnings from that pensionable employment which the employer did not have to withhold CPP or QPP contributions.
C	Employment outside Canada by a Canadian employer (including the federal government), and the employer has not agreed to cover the employment under the CPP.
D	Employment in Canada by an international organization or by the government of another country and the employer has not agreed to cover the employment in Canada under the CPP.
E	Employment in Canada by an employer who is not resident in Canada, does not have an establishment in Canada, and has not undertaken to cover the employment in Canada under the CPP.
F	Employment in Canada in agriculture or an agricultural enterprise, horticulture, fishing, hunting, trapping, forestry, logging, or lumbering for less than 25 days in the year or where the cash remuneration was less than $250.
G	Employment in Canada of a casual nature, other than for the employer's trade or business.
H	Employment in Canada by the federal, provincial or municipal government or a school board for less than 35 hours in the year for any referendum or election for public office, if you were not regularly employed by that employer.
I	Employment in Canada for less than 7 days in the year (for example, at a circus, fair, parade, carnival, exposition, or exhibition), as long as you were not an entertainer and you were not regularly employed by that employer.
J	Employment outside Canada where, under the laws of the other country, you did not have to contribute to a plan that is similar to the CPP.
K	Employment in international transportation partly inside and partly outside Canada and you were not required to contribute to a plan similar to CPP under the laws of a country other than Canada.
L	Employment in Canada fighting a disaster or engaging in a rescue operation if you were not regularly employed by that employer.
M	Employment in Canada if you are registered or entitled to be registered under the Indian Act and you received a tax-exempt salary or wages from an employer who has not undertaken to cover the employment under the CPP.
N	Self-employment in Canada if you are registered or entitled to be registered under the Indian Act and you received tax-exempt self-employment earnings on a reserve.
O	Employment in Canada where you had multiple contracts of employment with the same employer, with the result that the year's basic exemption used to withhold CPP and QPP contributions was more than $3,500 for the year.
P	Employment in Canada where you had multiple employers during the year and one or more received your Form CPT30, Election to Stop Contributing to the Canada Pension Plan, or Revocation of a Prior Election, while one or more employers did not withhold CPP contributions because the employers did not receive a copy of your completed Form CPT30 revoking your prior election to stop contributing to CPP.
