General information

Is this form for you?

The working income tax benefit (WITB) is for low-income individuals and families who have earned income from employment or business. To receive the WITB advance payments, you must apply every year.

You cannot apply for the WITB advance payments for 2017 if you became or ceased to be a resident of Canada in 2017.

What are the WITB advance payments?

The WITB advance payments represent a maximum of 50% of the WITB refundable tax credit that you can claim on your 2017 income tax and benefit return. Any WITB that you are entitled to and do not get as advance payments will be credited to you when we assess your 2017 return.

Disability supplement

If you are eligible for the WITB and the disability amount (for self), you can fill out Part 3 of this form to request disability supplement advance payments for 2017. This will be included as part of your WITB advance payments.

You are eligible for the disability amount (for self) if we have an approved Form T2201, Disability Tax Credit Certificate, on file for you.

When should you apply for the advance payments?

To get the WITB advance payments, you need to apply after January 1, 2017, and before September 1, 2017 by filling out this form.

Applications received after August 31, 2017, will not be processed. However, if you are eligible for the WITB, you can still claim it on your return.

Who should get the advance payments?

If you have a spouse or common-law partner, the spouse or common-law partner who expects to have the higher working income in 2017 should get the WITB advance payments for the family unless one of you qualifies for the disability supplement.

In that case, the spouse or common-law partner who qualifies for the disability supplement should get the advance payments.

If both of you qualify for the disability supplement, the person with the higher expected working income in 2017 should get the advance payments.

If both of you qualify for the disability supplement, only one individual will get the disability supplement in advance payments. The other individual must claim the supplement on his or her return.

When will you get the WITB advance payments?

After your application is processed, your WITB advance payment will be divided by the number of remaining payments for the year and will be paid in equal instalments. The payments are issued in April, July and October 2017, and January 2018. If the total of your annual WITB advance payments calculated is less than $100, you will not get any advance payments. However, if you are eligible for the WITB, you can still claim it on your return.

Why do you need to file an income tax and benefit return?

If you receive the WITB advance payments, you have to file a return. We will not issue WITB advance payments for subsequent years until we assess your 2017 return.

At the beginning of 2018, we will send you a statement of the WITB advance payments issued to you for use in completing your 2017 return. You will get any additional WITB that you are entitled to when you file your 2017 return. However, if the WITB advance payments you received in 2017 were more than the total WITB you are entitled to, you may have to repay the difference when you file your 2017 return.

When should you contact us?

You must tell us if your situation changes, as your advance payments may be affected.

After you apply, use My Account at cra.gc.ca/myaccount or call at 1-800-959-8281 to tell us about any of the following changes:

- you move (you can also send Form RC325, Address change request);
- you get your payments by direct deposit and your banking information changes; or
- your marital status changes (you can also send Form RC65, Marital Status Change).

Notes

Do not notify us of your separation until you have been separated for 90 consecutive days or more.

If your marital status changes, you may have to send another application before September 1, 2017, to continue receiving the WITB advance payments.

Call 1-800-959-8281 to tell us about any of the following changes:

- you or your spouse or common-law partner no longer meet the WITB eligibility requirements (for more information, go to cra.gc.ca/witb);
- your or your spouse's or common-law partner's income changes significantly;
- you ceased to be a resident of Canada; or
- a recipient died.

Definitions

Common-law partner – This applies to a person who is not your spouse, with whom you are living in a conjugal relationship, and to whom at least one of the following situations applies. He or she:

a) has been living with you in a conjugal relationship and this current relationship has lasted at least 12 continuous months;

Note

In this definition, 12 continuous months includes any period you were separated for less than 90 days because of a breakdown in the relationship.

b) is the parent of your child by birth or adoption; or

c) has custody and control of your child (or had custody and control immediately before the child turned 19 years of age) and your child is wholly dependent on that person for support.

Eligible dependant – For WITB purposes, an eligible dependant is a person who meets all of the following conditions. He or she:

- was your or your spouse's or common-law partner's child;
- was under 19 years of age and lived with you on December 31, 2017; and
- was not eligible for the WITB for 2017.

Separated – You are separated when you start living separate and apart from your spouse or common-law partner because of a breakdown in the relationship for a period of at least 90 days and you have not reconciled.

Once you have been separated for 90 days (because of a breakdown in the relationship), the effective day of your separated status is the day you started living separate and apart.

Spouse – This applies only to a person to whom you are legally married.
