Instructions

If an election has been made under paragraph 261(3)(b) of the Income Tax Act (Act) to report in a functional currency, state all monetary amounts in that functional currency, otherwise state all monetary amounts in Canadian dollars. Round all monetary amounts to the nearest Canadian dollar or functional currency unit, if applicable. Only certain corporations can elect to report in a functional currency. Part II - Non-resident information

Q.4. State how the non-resident is classified under the foreign law governing the non-resident in the non-resident's jurisdiction of residence. In the case of partnerships, the non-resident status of the partnership should be determined as if the partnership were accorded the same status as a resident of the foreign jurisdiction.

Q.5. If the non-resident classification for tax purposes in the foreign jurisdiction is different than the classification in Q.4., then state yes, otherwise, state no.

Q.6. State the type of relationship that exists between the reporting person/partnership and the non-resident. A foreign affiliate and a controlled foreign affiliate are defined under subsection 95(1) of the Act.

Q.7. State the main countries for the transactions reported in Part III by entering the appropriate NAICS codes. The current NAICS codes can be found at https://www23.statcan.gc.ca/imdb/p3VD.pl?Function=getVD&TVD=1369825. You can enter more than one code.

Q.8. State the main countries for the transactions reported in Part III by entering the appropriate country code. You can enter more than one code. For the list of country codes, see the information provided under Q1., Q2. and Q3. above.

Q.9. Enter yes or no to the question. In general, subsection 247(4) of the Act relates to the requirement to maintain and make available to the Minister contemporaneous transfer pricing documentation. You can find more information on contemporaneous documentation at canada.ca/cra-transfer-pricing by going to the "Documentation Requirements" section and clicking on the "contemporaneous documentation" link.

Part III - Transactions between reporting person/partnership and non-resident

Enter the amount (rounded to the nearest Canadian dollar or functional currency unit, if applicable) for the transactions in Part III. Only record in Part III those amounts that apply to the non-resident described in Part II. Report gross amounts in the two columns.

The "Sold to non-resident" and "Revenue from non-resident" refers to gross sales and revenue received from non-arm's length transactions with non-residents. For example, this includes transactions related to exports from Canada and services provided to the non-resident.

The "Purchased from non-resident" and "Expenditure to non-resident" refers to gross purchases and expenditures made relating to non-arm's length transactions with non-residents. For example, this includes transactions related to imports into Canada and services provided by the non-resident.

For the banking industries, the line for "Stock in trade/raw materials" must be used to report bonds, debentures, loans, mortgage transactions. The normal interest income and expense on loans and advances with the non-arm's length non-resident(s) must be reported in the Financial section.

Transfer Pricing Methods (TPM)

Use the codes listed below to reflect the main TPM.

1	Comparable Uncontrolled Price	5	Transactional Net Margin
2	Cost-Plus	6	Cost Contribution Arrangement
3	Resale	7	Advance Pricing Arrangement
4	Profit Split	8	Other

You can find more information on TPMs at: canada.ca/cra-transfer-pricing. For information on the CRA's APA program, see Information Circular 94-4R2, International Transfer Pricing: Advance Pricing Arrangements (APAs) at: canada.ca/en/revenue-agency/services/forms-publications/publications/ic94-4/international-transfer-pricing-advance-pricing.

Part IV - Indebtedness, investments and similar amounts

Subsection 15(2) of the Act can apply to a non-resident shareholder of a Canadian resident corporation, in which case, the debt is treated as a deemed dividend subject to non-resident withholding tax. Where a corporation resident in Canada (CRIC) is controlled by a non-resident corporation, subsection 212.3(2) of the Act contains similar rules (the foreign affiliate dumping rules) to deem certain amounts owing by a foreign affiliate of the CRIC to be a dividend paid to the non-resident shareholder.

The election to treat the debts as a PLOI, is a choice the non-resident shareholder and the CRIC can make to avoid the deemed dividend treatment and the withholding tax liability that would otherwise result. You can find more information on PLOI, at canada.ca/en/revenue-agency/services/tax/businesses/topics/corporations/corporation-payments/understanding-interest.

State whether a PLOI election was made and if so, provide the deemed interest amount included as taxable income for the tax year or fiscal period.
