Deducting Income Tax on Pension and Other Income, and Filing the T4A Slip and Summary

RC4157(E) Rev. 25

Canada

Find out if this guide is for you

Use this guide if you are a payer, such as an employer, a trustee, an estate executor (or liquidator), an administrator, or a corporate director, and you pay any of the following types of income:

- pension or superannuation
- lump-sum payments
- self-employed commissions
- annuities
- patronage allocations
- registered education savings plan (RESP) accumulated income payments
- RESP educational assistance payments
- fees or other amounts for services
- income replacement payments made under the Veterans Well-being Act
- other income such as research grants, payments from a registered disability savings plan (RDSP), wage-loss replacement plan payments if you were not required to withhold Canada Pension Plan (CPP) contributions and employment insurance (EI) premiums, death benefits, or certain benefits paid to partnerships or shareholders

Note
Use a T4 slip to report retiring allowances. For more information, go to canada.ca/cra-retiring-allowances.

You have to fill out the T4A slip, Statement of Pension, Retirement, Annuity, and Other Income, if you made any of the payments listed above and one of the following applies:

- the total of all payments in the calendar year was more than $500
- you deducted tax from any payment

You have to prepare a T4A slip for a subscriber if any RESP accumulated income payments totalling $50 or more are made in the calendar year. Also, you have to prepare a T4A slip for a beneficiary if any RESP educational assistance payments totalling $50 or more are made in the calendar year.

If you provided a group term life insurance taxable benefit to a former employee or retiree, you must report the benefit on a T4A slip using code 119. Employers who pay Group Term Life Insurance premiums on behalf of retirees, when it's the only income reported on the T4A slip, are only required to report the premium if the amount is greater than $50. The $500 reporting threshold for T4A slips does not apply.

If you are the administrator or trustee of a multi-employer plan (MEP) and you provided a taxable benefit under the plan to an employee, former employee, or retiree, report the benefit on a T4A slip using code 119, if it is more than $25.

Note
An MEP is a pension plan where no more than 95% of the active members work for one employer or group of related employers in a year.

You have to prepare a T4A slip for tax-free savings account (TFSA) taxable amounts paid to a recipient when the amount for the year is more than $50.

For a complete list of the other types of income covered in this guide, see "Other information" on page 13.

Note
In this guide, the term recipient refers to the beneficiary of a payment and includes employees, former employees, retired persons, and shareholders.

Do not fill out a T4A slip for:

- Payments made by a federal government department or agency, or crown corporation for goods and services. Instead, fill out the T1204 slip, Government Service Contract Payments
- Payments made by individuals, partnerships, trusts, or corporations with construction as their main business activity to subcontractors for construction services. Instead, fill out the T5018 slip, Statement of Contract Payments
- Amounts paid or credited to a non-resident of Canada, such as interest, dividends, rental income, royalties, pension income, retiring allowances, or other similar types of passive income. Instead, fill out the NR4 slip, Statement of Amounts Paid or Credited to Non-Residents of Canada. For more information, go to canada.ca/cra-nr4
- Payments from a retirement compensation arrangement. Instead, fill out the T4A-RCA slip, Statement of Distributions from a Retirement Compensation Arrangement (RCA). For more information, go to canada.ca/taxes-slips and select "T4A-RCA slip – Retirement Compensation Arrangement (RCA) trust," or call 1-800-959-5525
- Income paid from a life income fund (LIF). Instead, fill out the T4RIF slip, Statement of Income from a Registered Retirement Income Fund. However, if a life annuity is bought from the proceeds of a LIF, the annuity payments have to be reported in box 024 of a T4A slip
- Amounts paid for tips and gratuities, group term life insurance premiums paid for current employees, and other employment income. Instead, fill out the T4 slip, Statement of Remuneration Paid
- Payments received under a supplementary unemployment benefit plan (SUBP) that do not qualify as a SUBP under the Income Tax Act (for example, employer-paid maternity and parental top-up amounts). Instead, fill out the T4 slip, Statement of Remuneration Paid. For more information, go to canada.ca/taxes-payroll-subp
- Undistributed amounts left in a deceased taxpayer's TFSA at the end of the trust's exempt period

Throughout this guide, the CRA refers to other guides, forms, interpretation bulletins, and information circulars. Generally, if you need any of these, go to canada.ca/cra-forms-publications or call 1-800-959-5525.

The CRA's publications and personalized correspondence are available in braille, large print, e-text, and MP3. For more information, go to canada.ca/cra-multiple-formats or call 1-800-959-5525.

La version française de ce guide est intitulée Comment retenir l'impôt sur les revenus de pension ou d'autres sources et produire le feuillet T4A et le Sommaire.

The Canada Revenue Agency uses the term Indian because it has legal meaning in the Indian Act.

Unless otherwise stated, all legislative references are to the Income Tax Act or, where appropriate, the Income Tax Regulations.

Chapter 1 – General information

Your responsibilities

As a payer, you must do the following:

- Deduct income tax from certain amounts you pay to recipients. For more information, go to canada.ca/cra-income-tax
- Hold these amounts in trust for the Receiver General for Canada. You have to keep these amounts separate from the operating funds of your business. Make sure these amounts are not part of an estate in liquidation, assignment, receivership, or bankruptcy
- Send these deductions to the Canada Revenue Agency (CRA)
- Report the payments and deductions on the T4A information return to the CRA. To do this, fill out the T4A slips, Statement of Pension, Retirement, Annuity, and Other Income. If you file on paper, also include the related T4A Summary, Summary of Pension, Retirement, Annuity, and Other Income. For instructions on how to fill out the T4A slip, see "Filling out T4A slips" on page 10. For instructions on how to fill out the T4A Summary, see "Filling out the T4A Summary" on page 17
- File the T4A Summary, together with the related T4A slips, on or before the last day of February following the calendar year to which the slips apply. For information about the filing methods you may use, see "Electronic filing methods" on page 18
- Give recipients their T4A slips on or before the last day of February following the calendar year to which the information return applies. For more information, see "Chapter 5 – T4A information return" on page 18
- Keep your paper and electronic records for at least six years after the year to which they relate. If you want to destroy them before the six year period is over, fill out the Form T137, Request for Destruction of Records. For more information, go to canada.ca/taxes-records

  Note
  The CRA will waive the requirement to file a T4A when the payer is an individual who has contracted the payee in a personal capacity, such as when the services are rendered for the repair or maintenance of an individual's principal residence.

If you fail to deduct, remit, or report income tax as required, you may be charged penalties and interest.

Form TD1, Personal Tax Credits Return

Individuals who will receive salary, wages, commissions, employment insurance benefits, pensions, or other remuneration must fill out a federal Form TD1 and, if more than the basic personal amount is claimed, a provincial or territorial Form TD1. For more information, go to canada.ca/cra-filing-form-td1.

Trustee in bankruptcy

Under the Canada Pension Plan and the Employment Insurance Act, the trustee in bankruptcy is the agent of the bankrupt employer in the event of an employer's liquidation, assignment, or bankruptcy.

If a bankrupt employer has deducted Canada Pension Plan (CPP) contributions, employment insurance (EI) premiums, or income tax from amounts employees received before the bankruptcy and the employer has not remitted these amounts to the CRA, the trustee must hold the amounts in trust. These amounts are not part of the estate in bankruptcy and should be kept separate.

If a trustee carries on the bankrupt employer's business, a new business number (BN) is required. The trustee has to continue to deduct and remit the necessary CPP contributions, EI premiums, and income tax according to the bankrupt employer's remittance schedule. T4 slips should be prepared and filed in the usual way.

Amounts paid by a trustee to employees of a bankrupt corporation to settle claims for wages that the bankrupt employer did not pay are taxable income but payroll deductions (CPP contributions, EI premiums, and income tax) are not required. Report these payments in the "Other information" area of the T4A slip, using code 156. For more information, see " Code 156 – Bankruptcy settlement" on page 16.

If your business stops operating or the partner or proprietor dies

Remit all amounts you deducted from payments made to the recipients to your tax centre within seven calendar days of the day your business ends.

Calculate the pension adjustment (PA) that applies to your former employees who accrued benefits for the year under your registered pension plan (RPP) or deferred profit sharing plan (DPSP). For information on how to calculate pension adjustments, go to canada.ca/cra-pension-adjustment-calculation. Fill out and file the T4A slips and T4A Summary electronically or on paper, and send them to the tax centre in Jonquière (see the address at the end of this guide) within 30 days of the day your business ends or 90 days from the date a partner or the sole proprietor dies. Give copies of the T4A slips to your former employees. If you file more than 5 slips for a calendar year, you must file your returns electronically. For more information, see "Electronic filing methods" on page 18.

After all the final returns and all the amounts owing have been processed and paid, close the BN and all CRA business accounts.

To close your payroll account, you may use the "Request to close payroll account" service in My Business Account at canada.ca/my-cra-business-account. An authorized representative may use this service through Represent a Client at canada.ca/taxes-representatives.

Penalties, interest and other consequences

Failure to deduct

If you failed to deduct the required amount of income tax from the amounts you pay to recipients, you may be assessed a penalty as described below. As soon as you realize you did not deduct the proper amount of income tax, you should let the recipient know. The recipient may either pay the amount when they file their income tax and benefit return or they may ask you to deduct more income tax at source.

Penalty for failure to deduct

The CRA may assess a penalty of 10% of the amount of income tax you failed to deduct.

If you are assessed this penalty more than once in a calendar year, the CRA will apply a 20% penalty to the second or later failures if they were made knowingly or under circumstances of gross negligence.

Penalty for failure to remit and late remittances

The CRA may assess a penalty on the amount you failed to remit when:

- you deducted amounts, but did not remit them
- the CRA received the amounts you deducted after the due date

When a due date falls on a Saturday, Sunday, or public holiday recognized by the CRA, your payment is considered on time if the CRA receives it or if it is postmarked on or before the next business day.

The penalty for remitting late is:

- 3% if the amount is one to three days late
- 5% if it is four or five days late
- 7% if it is six or seven days late
- 10% if it is more than seven days late or if no amount is remitted

Generally, the CRA only applies this penalty to the part of the amount you failed to remit that is more than $500. However, the CRA may apply the penalty to the total amount if the failure was made knowingly or under circumstances of gross negligence.

In addition, if you are charged this penalty more than once in a calendar year, the CRA may charge a 20% penalty on the second or later failures if they were made knowingly or under circumstances of gross negligence.

Note
The CRA will charge you a fee for any payment that your financial institution refuses to process. If your payment is late, the CRA may also charge you penalties and interest on any amount you owe.

Due date

The due date for filing the 2025 T4As is Saturday, February 28, 2026.

When a due date falls on a Saturday, Sunday, or public holiday recognized by the CRA, your information return is considered on time if the CRA receives it on or before the next business day. Note that several provinces and territories have their own unique holidays. Therefore, due dates may be affected depending on where you reside.

You have to give the recipient their T4A slip and file your T4A return with the CRA on or before the T4A filing due date.

The CRA considers your T4A return to be filed on time if the CRA receives it or if it is postmarked by the due date.

Exception

If the due date falls on Saturday, Sunday, or public holiday recognized by the CRA, your T4A return is due the next business day.

Late filing penalty

The CRA may charge you a penalty if you file your T4A return late. The penalty is based on the number of T4A returns you filed late. The amount of the penalty is calculated based on the below chart. The minimum penalty is $100.

For example, if you file 100 T4A returns and 100 T4 returns late, the CRA would assess two late filing penalties: one for the T4A returns and another for the T4 returns.

The late filing penalty is recalculated if T4A returns are added or cancelled. The recalculation is based on the updated count of late T4A returns and the number of days they are late. A new notice of assessment will be sent to you. For T4A information returns, the CRA has an administrative policy that reduces the penalty that it assesses so it is fair and reasonable for small businesses.

Late filing penalty
Number of T4A slips filed late	Penalty per day	Maximum penalty
1 to 5	N/A	$100 set penalty
6 to 10	$5	$500
11 to 50	$10	$1,000
51 to 500	$15	$1,500
501 to 2,500	$25	$2,500
2,501 to 10,000	$50	$5,000
More than10,000	$75	$7,500

Failure to file electronically

If you file more than 5 information returns for a calendar year, you must file the returns electronically. After filing the original return, slips may be amended, added or deleted in either paper or electronic format. For more information, see section "Choose the filing method to amend, add, replace or cancel T4A slips" on page 20.

If you do not file electronically when you are required to do so, the penalty the CRA assesses is based on the number of information returns filed in an incorrect format. Each slip is an information return.

The penalty is calculated per type of information return. For example, if you file 6 NR4 slips and 6 T4A slips on paper, the CRA would assess two penalties of $125, one per type of information return.

Failure to file electronically penalty
Number of information returns (slips) by type	Penalty
6 to 50	$125
51 to 250	$250
251 to 500	$500
501 to 2,500	$1,500
2,501 and more	$2,500

Interest

If you fail to pay an amount, the CRA may apply interest from the day your payment was due. The interest rate the CRA uses is determined every three months, based on prescribed interest rates. Interest is compounded daily. The CRA also applies interest to unpaid penalties. For the prescribed interest rates, go to canada.ca/taxes-interest-rates.

Cancel or waive penalties or interest

The CRA administers legislation, commonly called taxpayer relief provisions, that allows the CRA discretion to cancel or waive penalties or interest when taxpayers cannot meet their tax obligations due to circumstances beyond their control.

The CRA's discretion to grant relief is limited to any period that ended within 10 calendar years before the year in which a request is made.

For penalties, the CRA will consider your request only if it relates to a tax year or fiscal period ending in any of the 10 calendar years before the year in which you make your request. For example, your request made in 2025 must relate to a penalty for a tax year or fiscal period ending in 2015 or later.

For interest on a balance owing for any tax year or fiscal period, the CRA will consider only the amounts that accrued during the 10 calendar years before the year in which you make your request. For example, your request made in 2025 must relate to interest that accrued in 2015 or later.

You or your authorized representative can make a request to cancel penalties or interest online using the CRA My Account, My Business Account or Represent a Client services by selecting "Request relief of penalties and interest" under "Related services." Alternatively, you can fill out Form RC4288, Request for Taxpayer Relief – Cancel or Waive Penalties and Interest, and send it online using My Account, My Business Account or Represent a Client by selecting the "Submit documents" service; or by mail to the designated office, as shown on the last page of the form, based on your place of residence.

For more information about how to submit documents online, go to canada.ca/cra-submit-documents-online. For more information about relief from penalties or interest and the related forms and publications, go to canada.ca/penalty-interest-relief.

Chapter 2 – Deducting Income Tax

How to calculate tax deductions

The payroll deductions tables help you calculate the amount of federal, provincial, and territorial income tax that you have to deduct from amounts you pay. Use the provincial or territorial tables for the province or territory in which the recipient resides, unless you will be applying lump-sum withholding rates. You may use any of the following versions of the payroll deductions tables:

- Payroll Deductions Online Calculator (PDOC) – You may use PDOC to calculate your payroll deductions. It calculates deductions for any pay period, province (except Quebec provincial taxes) and territory. The calculation is based on exact salary figures. For more information, go to canada.ca/pdoc.
- Guide T4032, *Payroll Deductions Tables and Guide T4008, *Payroll Deductions Supplementary Tables – You may use these tables to calculate payroll deductions. They are available at canada.ca/payroll.
- Guide T4127, *Payroll Deductions Formulas – You may want to use these formulas instead of the tables to calculate your recipients' payroll deductions. This guide contains formulas to calculate CPP contributions, EI premiums, and federal, provincial (except Quebec), and territorial income tax.

  If the computer formulas you want to use are different from the CRA's, you have to send them to a tax services office or tax centre for approval

All the payroll deductions tables are available for each province and territory and also for employees working in Canada beyond the limits of any province or territory, or working outside Canada.

If you fail to deduct the required amounts, the CRA may apply a failure to deduct penalty. For more information, see "Penalties, interest and other consequences" on page 5.

Special payments

Death benefits

A death benefit is the gross amount of any payment (including a payment to a surviving spouse or common-law partner, heir, or estate) on or after the death of an employee to recognize the employee's service in an office or employment. Wages and employment income earned up to and including the date of death are payments that are reported on a T4 slip, not a T4A slip. For more information, go to canada.ca/payroll-calculate-deductions, and select "Determine the tax treatment of payments other than regular employment income" and type "Payments related to death benefits" in the filter box.

If you pay a death benefit to a surviving spouse, common-law partner, or heir, part of this payment may be exempt from tax (to a maximum of $10,000) when the person files an income tax and benefit return. Do not deduct income tax from this part of the payment. For more information, see archived Interpretation Bulletin IT-508, Death Benefits.

Use the withholding rates for lump-sum payments shown below to deduct income tax from the remainder of the taxable amount of the death benefit. The T4A slip should be issued in the name of the recipient, not in the name of the deceased. Lump-sum payments

You have to deduct income tax from lump-sum payments that are:

- from a registered retirement savings plan (RRSP) or a plan referred to in subsection 146(12) of the Income Tax Act (ITA) as an amended plan
- from a registered pension plan (RPP)
- from a deferred profit sharing plan (DPSP)
- more than the minimum amount you have to pay to an annuitant under a registered retirement income fund (RRIF)

If you pay a lump-sum payment (such as a refund of premiums) to a deceased annuitant's spouse or common-law partner, do not deduct income tax.

Do not report eligible and non-eligible retiring allowance amounts (including those amounts paid to Indians) on a T4A slip. Instead, report these types of income on a T4 slip. For more information on retiring allowances, go to canada.ca/cra-retiring-allowances.

Withholding rates for lump-sum payments

Combine all lump-sum payments that you have paid or expect to pay in the calendar year when determining the composite rate to use. Use the following federal and provincial or territorial composite rates:

- 10% (5% for Quebec) on amounts up to and including $5,000
- 20% (10% for Quebec) on amounts over $5,000 up to and including $15,000
- 30% (15% for Quebec) on amounts over $15,000

Recipients may have to pay extra tax on these amounts when they file their returns. To avoid this situation, if a recipient requests it, you may:

- calculate the annual tax to deduct from the recipient's yearly remuneration, including the lump-sum payment. For more information, please see the "Step-by-step calculation of tax deductions" section in Guide T4032, Payroll Deductions Tables of your province or territory
- calculate the annual tax to deduct from the recipient's yearly remuneration, not including the lump-sum payment
- subtract the second amount from the first amount

The result is the amount you deduct from the lump-sum payment if the recipient requests it.

Do not deduct income tax from a lump-sum payment if the recipient's total earnings received or receivable during the calendar year, including the lump-sum payment, are less than the claim amount on their Form TD1, Personal Tax Credits Return. This does not apply to lump-sum payments made to non-residents.

Qualifying retroactive lump-sum payments

Certain retroactive lump-sum payments totalling $3,000 or more (not including interest) are eligible for a special tax calculation when an individual files their income tax and benefits return, regardless of the amount of tax you withhold from the payment.

Eligible sources of income are:

- income from an office or employment received under:
  - an order or judgment from a court or other competent tribunal
  - an arbitration award
  - a lawsuit settlement agreement (including damages for loss of office or employment)
- benefits from unemployment insurance or employment insurance
- benefits from a superannuation or pension plan (other than non-periodic benefits such as lump-sum withdrawals)
- spousal, common-law partner, or child support payments
- benefits from a wage-loss replacement plan
- Canadian Forces members and veterans income replacement benefits

To qualify for a special tax calculation, the payments described on Form T1198, Statement of Qualifying Retroactive Lump-Sum Payment, must have been paid to the individual after 1994 for one or more years after 1977 throughout which the individual was a resident of Canada.

Note
If you pay a retroactive pay increase, go to canada.ca/cra-bonuses-retroactive-increases-irregular-amounts.

You have to provide the following information in writing to the recipient:

- the year in which the lump-sum payment was made to the recipient
- a complete description of the lump-sum payment and the circumstances that required it to be paid
- the total amount of the lump-sum payment, including a breakdown between the principal and the interest element, if any
- the principal amount of the lump-sum payment that relates to the current year and each of the previous years covered by the payment

As the payer, fill out Form T1198 for a recipient. To ask for the special tax calculation, the recipient has to attach that form to their paper income tax and benefit return for the year of payment and send the return to their tax centre.

Transfer of funds

A lump-sum payment may be directly transferred, within income tax limits (as explained below), from an RPP or a DPSP to an RPP, an RRSP, specified pension plan (SPP), pooled registered pension plan (PRPP) or a RRIF. A lump-sum payment from a DPSP may also be transferred directly to another DPSP, or used to purchase an advanced life deferred annuity (ALDA). In addition, a lump-sum payment may be transferred directly from a money purchase RPP to purchase an ALDA. Do not deduct tax on an amount that you transfer directly (not paid to the recipient) to an RPP, an RRSP, a DPSP, SPP, PRPP, or a RRIF, or used to purchase an ALDA.

Trustees and administrators may use Form T2151, Direct Transfer of a Single Amount Under Subsection 147(19) or Section 147.3, to transfer a lump-sum payment directly for a recipient. To transfer amounts from a registered plan to purchase an ALDA as an issuer of an RRSP, the carrier of a RRIF, the administrator of a PRPP or money purchase RPP and the trustee of a DPSP, you must use Form T2157, Direct Transfer from a Registered Plan to Purchase an ALDA. The transferring entity is required to complete a T4RSP, T4RIF or T4A slip for the transfer, as applicable.

The ITA sometimes limits how much of an RPP lump-sum payment you may transfer directly to registered plans. If the amount you transfer is more than these limits, the recipient has to include the excess transfer in their income and you have to deduct income tax on the amount you did not directly transfer. You cannot transfer this amount to another RPP, RRSP, DPSP, SPP, PRPP, or RRIF.

Amounts from RRSPs, RRIFs, PRPPs, and SPPs may also be transferred on a tax-deferred basis in accordance with various provisions of the ITA. An ALDA is a qualifying annuity purchase for an RRSP, RRIF, DPSP, PRPP and money purchase RPP.

For more information about transferring funds between plans, go to canada.ca/cra-transfer-funds.

Patronage payments

Patronage payments include:

- certificates of indebtedness
- amounts credited towards the balance a recipient may owe the payer of the patronage
- shares of a corporation that an individual receives because of a patronage payment

You have to apply a withholding tax of 15% on the value of patronage payments that Canadian residents receive in a year. This withholding tax applies to the payment or to the total of several payments of more than $100 you made during the year.

Example
You give Colin a $250 patronage payment. The amount on which you apply the 15% withholding tax is $150 ($250 – $100). The withholding tax is $22.50 ($150 × 15%).

Fill in the remittance voucher at the bottom of Form PD7A, Statement of account for current source deductions, and include it with the deducted amount you are sending to the Receiver General.

The withholding tax does not apply to Canadian residents who are exempt under section 149 of the ITA.

For more information, see archived Interpretation Bulletin IT-362, Patronage Dividends.

Registered education savings plan (RESP)

Investment earnings in an RESP may be paid to the subscriber or, in some circumstances, to a person other than the subscriber. These payments are called accumulated income payments (AIPs).

Two different taxes are applied to an AIP: the regular income tax under Part I of the ITA, and an extra tax of 20% (12% for residents of Quebec) under Part X.5 of the ITA.

The taxable amount may be reduced up to a lifetime maximum of $50,000, if both of the following conditions are met:

- the recipient of the AIPs is the original subscriber, or acquired the former subscribers' rights as a consequence of marriage breakdown or, where there is no subscriber of the plan, they are or were the spouse or common-law partner of a deceased subscriber
- the recipient has filled out Form T1171, Tax Withholding Waiver on Accumulated Income Payments from RESPs, and asks that you transfer the payment directly to their RRSP, PRPP, SPP or spousal or common-law partner's RRSP or SPP

If you are satisfied that these conditions and those explained on Form T1171 are met and you may reasonably believe that the recipient of an AIP will deduct that amount as an RRSP, PRPP or SPP contribution for the year you paid it, you do not have to withhold tax on the amount transferred.

The taxable amount is the AIP minus the reduction determined on Form T1171.

Report all payments from an RESP on a T4A slip.

For more information, go to canada.ca/cra-resp-accumulated-income-payments.

Tax-free savings account (TFSA)

Generally, income earned in a TFSA is tax-free, even when it is withdrawn. However, special rules apply if the arrangement stops being a TFSA for any of the following reasons:

- the TFSA stops being a "qualifying arrangement" as defined in subsection 146.2(1) of the ITA
- the conditions set out in subsection 146.2(2) of the ITA are not satisfied
- the last TFSA holder dies

The following comments refer to the death of the last TFSA holder. However, with the exception of the exempt period rule, which only applies on the death of the last holder under a trusteed arrangement, similar rules apply under the three reasons mentioned above.

If the holder of a deposit or an annuity contract that is a TFSA dies, the holder is considered to have disposed of the deposit or the annuity. Each person who has an interest in the deposit or annuity is considered to have acquired that interest at the time of the holder's death at a cost equal to the fair market value (FMV) of the deposit or annuity as valued just before death. After the holder's death, a deposit or annuity contract is no longer considered to be a TFSA and is subject to the normal reporting, withholding and income inclusion rules that apply to deposits and annuities.

Where the holder of a TFSA that is a trusteed arrangement dies, the trust will, in general, stop being a TFSA at the date of death. However, the trust will, for certain purposes, continue to be treated as a TFSA from the date of death until the end of the calendar year following the year of death, or when the trust ends, if earlier (the exempt period). During the exempt period, property held in the TFSA may be distributed tax-free to the beneficiaries as long as the total amount distributed is not more than the FMV of the property held in the trust just before the holder's death. Any amounts paid to a beneficiary in excess of this limit must be included in the beneficiary's income in the year the amounts are paid and must be reported as income to the beneficiaries on a T4A slip (if the amounts are more than $50). You do not have to deduct income tax on these amounts.

For example, a TFSA could be valued at $10,000 at the date of death, but by the time it is distributed to the beneficiary, the account could be worth $11,000. The extra $1,000 is taxable income in the hands of the beneficiary if paid out within the exempt period, and a T4A must be prepared by the issuer reporting that amount.

If the trust continues to exist after the exempt period ends, the trust will be taxable and will have to include in its income any income earned afterwards. Also, for its first tax year that starts after the end of the exemption period, the trust must also include in its income any post-death income or appreciation that has not been distributed and included in a beneficiary's income during the exempt period. The trust would be taxable on these income inclusions unless they are payable in the year to the beneficiaries of the trust, based on the trust rules described in Guide T4013, T3 Trust Guide.

Chapter 3 – T4A slips

Filling out T4A slips

Make sure the social insurance number (SIN) or a program account number and name you enter on the T4A slip for each recipient are correct.

If an individual does not give you their SIN, you must be able to show that you made a reasonable effort to get it. A valid program account number may be provided as an alternative (such as a GST/HST account number) if the individual is a sole proprietor. For businesses that are partnerships or corporations, a program account number may be provided but is not required for a completion of the T4A.

Example
If you contact an individual by mail to ask for their SIN, record the date of your request and keep a copy of any correspondence that relates to it. If you do not try to get a SIN, you may be charged a penalty of $100 for each failure. If you cannot get a SIN from the recipient, file your information return, without the SIN, on or before the last day of February following the calendar year to which the information return applies.

For more information, go to canada.ca/taxes-payroll-sin.

When filling out T4A slips:

- Income is reported on a T4A slip for the year in which it is paid, regardless of when it was earned
- If a box does not have a value, do not enter "nil" or "N/A." Leave the box blank
- Do not change the headings of any of the boxes
- Report, in dollars and cents, all amounts you paid during the year, except pension adjustment amounts, which are reported in dollars only. For more information, see "Code 034 – Pension adjustment" page 14
- Do not enter hyphens or dashes between numbers
- Do not enter the dollar sign ($)

How to report foreign income in Canadian dollars

Report all T4A amounts in Canadian dollars as per the Income Tax Act (ITA) requirements.

Bank of Canada

In general, the foreign currency amount should be converted using the Bank of Canada exchange rate in effect on the day it arises. For more information, go to bankofcanada.ca/rates/exchange.

Other acceptable sources

The CRA will also generally accept a rate for that day from another source if it is:

- widely available
- verifiable
- published by an independent provider on an ongoing basis
- recognized by the market
- used in accordance with well-accepted business principles
- used to prepare financial statements (if any)
- used regularly from year to year

Other sources for rates that the CRA generally accept include Bloomberg L.P., Thomson Reuters Corporation and OANDA Corporation.

For more information, including circumstances where an average rate may be used to convert foreign currency amounts, see Income Tax Folio S5-F4-C1, Income Tax Reporting Currency.

A third party (such as a prime contractor or another subcontractor) may provide board and lodging or transportation to employees of subcontractors. For example, all workers on a site may share common quarters.

The person who provides the benefits (a third-party payer) has to report them on a T4A slip, unless the benefits are non-taxable allowances for working at a special work site or remote work location. The reporting of medical travel assistance and board and lodging at special work sites is explained below.

Service bureaus filing returns – If a service bureau is filing an information return for you, you are still responsible for the accuracy of the information, for any balance owing, and for filing on time.

Branch offices filing returns – If the branch office of a company has sent in income tax deductions under a separate account, which only that office uses, file the information return (slips and related summary) for that office as a separate return.

Electronic filing methods

Electronic filing will be available starting January 12, 2026.

You must file electronically if you have more than 5 information returns of the same type. If you use commercial or in house developed payroll software to manage your business, you may file up to 150 MB by Internet file transfer. For example, a service bureau may file multiple returns in one submission, provided the total submission does not exceed the 150 MB restriction.

If your return is more than 150 MB, you may either compress your return or divide it so that each submission is no more than 150 MB.

Note
If you are filing multiple slips electronically for the same return type, tax year and account number, group all slips together under one summary and file as one return. File original and amended slips in separate returns. For more information, go to canada.ca/filing-info-returns.

Web Forms

You can file up to 100 slips using Web Forms. Web Forms lets you do all of the following:

- file original, additional, amended, and cancelled slips directly from the CRA website
- create an electronic information return
- validate data in real time, with prompts to correct errors before filing your slips
- calculate the totals for the summary
- save and import information
- print slips and summary
- send encrypted returns over the internet

After you submit your information return, you will receive a confirmation number that will be your proof that the CRA has received it.

To use the Web Forms application, you must have a web access code. If you do not have a web access code, you may easily get one online or by calling the CRA. For more information, see "Web access code" on this page.

To start using this application or to get more information about Web Forms, go to canada.ca/filing-info-returns.

Internet file transfer (XML)

Internet file transfer allows you to transmit an original or amended return with a maximum file size of 150 MB. All you need is a web browser to connect to the Internet, and your software will create, print, and save your electronic information return in XML format. For information about this filing method, contact your software publisher or go to canada.ca/filing-info-returns.

Web access code (WAC)

To file your return electronically using the Internet file transfer or Web Forms services, you will need a business number and its associated WAC, unless you are filing through My Business Account or Represent a Client. For information about these services, see the next section "Filing without a web access code" below. If you have misplaced or do not have a WAC, go to canada.ca/taxes -iref to access the web access code online service. If you cannot get your WAC online or would like to change it, call 1-800-959-5525.

  - using the "Authorization request" service with Represent a Client at canada.ca/taxes-representatives
  - giving your BN, RepID, or GroupID to businesses or your employer so they may authorize you using the "Authorize or manage representatives" service in My Business Account at canada.ca/my-cra-business -account

Filing on paper – 1 to 5 T4A slips

The CRA encourages you to file your T4A return electronically. However, if you have 5 slips or less, you may file on paper.

For a paper version of the CRA's forms and publications, go to canada.ca/cra-forms-publications or call 1-800-959-5525.

Fill out one copy of each T4A slip you need to fill out for each recipient and include it with your T4A Summary when you file. Enter the information for two different recipients on one sheet.

The T4A return is mailed to the address provided on the T4A Summary.

You must keep a copy of the T4A slips and Summary for your records. For more information about how to keep adequate books and records, go to canada.ca/taxes-records.

The CRA accepts alternate versions of the T4A slip. For information, go to canada.ca/cra-customized-forms.

T4A summary sent without T4A slip

A completed return must be filed including slips. If a summary is sent without the slips, the following apply:

- The CRA will consider the return as not received
- The summary will not be processed

How to distribute your T4A slips

You must give recipients their T4A slips on or before the last day of February following the calendar year to which the slips apply. If you do not, you may be charged a penalty. The penalty for failing to distribute T4A slips to recipients is $25 per day for each such failure with a minimum penalty of $100 and a maximum of $2,500.

Give each recipient a T4A slip in one of the following ways:

- one copy sent electronically

The CRA intends to introduce the following criteria for electronic distribution:

You can distribute T4A slips using a secure electronic portal without obtaining written or electronic consent from the recipients before distributing the slips. With written consent from the recipient, you can distribute T4A slips using email.

For more information go to canada.ca/payroll-file and select "Distribute the slips."

In all other cases, where the recipient does not have access to a secure portal from which they can print the slip in a secure manner or when the recipient requests it, you will need to provide two copies of the slip, in paper format, to the recipient in person or by mail.

- two copies, sent by mail to the recipient's last known address

Notes
If T4A slip copies are returned as not deliverable, you may want to keep the copies with the recipient's file.

If you know that the address you have on file for the recipient is not correct, do not send T4A slips to that address. Document why the copies were not sent and your efforts to get the correct address. Keep this information with the T4A slips in the recipient's files. You still have to include the T4A slip information in your T4A information return when you file it.

- two copies, delivered in person

The CRA suggests that you print the two T4A slips that you have to give to each recipient on one sheet. For security purposes, do not print your account number (box 061) on these copies.

For more information on how to fill out the T4A slip and summary, go to canada.ca/taxes-slips and select, "Distribute the slips."

Chapter 6 – After you file

When the CRA receives your information return, it checks to see if you have prepared it correctly. After an initial review, the CRA enters your return into its processing system, which captures the information and performs various validity and balancing checks. If there are any problems, the CRA may contact you.

After filing your information return, you may notice that you made an error on a T4A slip. If so, you will have to prepare an amended slip to correct the information.

Note
You do not have to file an amended T4A slip if the only change is to the recipient's address.

Choose the filing method to amend, add, replace or cancel T4A slips

Pension adjustment (PA)

You have to recalculate a PA in a registered pension plan (RPP) when all of the following conditions are met:

- an employee returns from a leave of absence or from a period of reduced service
- the service was not previously a pensionable service
- by April 30 of the following year:
  - benefits are retroactively provided under a defined benefit provision for the period concerned and the employee makes the commitment to purchase the benefits
  - retroactive contributions are made by the employee or the employer to a money purchase provision

Note
If the commitment to purchase benefits is made after April 30, a past service pension adjustment (PSPA) will be calculated.

If, as the pension plan administrator for a multi-employer plan (MEP), you have to recalculate a PA for an employee under an RPP during a period of leave or reduced services, amend the PA for the employee for each year after 1989 that is affected by the leave. For periods of leave or reduced services not under a MEP, amend the PA on a T4A slip.

You do not have to report an amended PA when the difference between the previously reported PA and the amended PA is less than $250. However, you do have to report one if an employee asks you to accurately report the PA, or if the CRA asks you to report the amended PA.

For the years in which you did not report a PA for the employee, you have to file an amended T4A slip showing the correct PA. If you previously reported a PA for the employee in a particular year, you have to show the total PA that applies for that year on the amended T4A slip.

For information on recalculating a PA, go to canada.ca/cra-pension-adjustment-calculation.

For information on calculating and reporting a PSPA, go to canada.ca/t4A-information-payers.

CRA service feedback program

Service complaints

You can expect to be treated fairly and to receive a high level of service every time you interact with the CRA.

You can provide compliments or suggestions; however, if you are not satisfied with the service you received:

- You may save time by calling the CRA first depending on your situation. You can call the telephone number provided in your CRA correspondence or discuss your concerns with the employee you have been dealing with. If you do not have a contact number, go to canada.ca/cra-contact
- You can ask to discuss the matter with the employee's supervisor if you have not been able to resolve your service issue
- You can submit feedback by filling out Form RC193, Service Feedback, if the issue remains unresolved. For more information, go to canada.ca/cra-service-feedback
- You may contact the Office of the 'Taxpayers' Ombudsperson. if you are not satisfied with the response you have received. The Ombudsperson will only respond to complaints that the CRA has already tried to address

For more information about the Taxpayer Bill of Rights, go to canada.ca/taxpayer-rights..

Reprisal complaints

If you received a response about a previously submitted service complaint or formal review of a CRA decision and felt that you were not treated fairly by a CRA employee, you can submit a reprisal complaint by filling out Form RC459, Reprisal Complaint.

For more information, go to canada.ca/cra-reprisal-complaints.

Reporting foreign income and other foreign amounts

Report, in Canadian dollars, your foreign income and other foreign currency amounts (such as expenses and foreign taxes paid).

In general, the foreign currency amount should be converted using the Bank of Canada exchange rate in effect on the day that the amount arises. In certain situations, the CRA will accept an exchange rate quoted by a source other than the Bank of Canada if the rate is:

- widely available
- verifiable
- published by an independent provider on an ongoing basis
- recognized by the market
- used in accordance with well-accepted business principles
- used to prepare financial statements (if any)
- used consistently from year to year

Each of the conditions above must be met for the rate to be accepted. Other sources of foreign exchange rates that the CRA generally accepts include Bloomberg L.P., Thomson Reuters Corporation and OANDA Corporation.

In certain circumstances, an average of exchange rates over the relevant period of time may be used to convert foreign currency amounts. See Income Tax Folio S5-F4-C1, Income Tax Reporting Currency, and refer to this folio for information about converting foreign amounts generally.

For more information about converting foreign income taxes paid, see Income Tax Folio S5-F2-C1, Foreign Tax Credit.
